Monthly Fund Manager's comment

In June, the fund achieved a positive absolute performance, though slightly underperformed relative to the benchmark. Performance was mainly explained by spreads tightening and a decline in U.S. yields, while the European yield curve rose over the month.

Market sentiment remained broadly risk-on, driven by ongoing negotiations between the U.S. government and other nations ahead of the 9 July deadline, and by the fourth interest rate cut by the ECB this year during the meeting of June. Meanwhile, tensions between Israel and Iran raised concerns over geopolitical risk and inflation due to higher oil prices. However, the temporary easing of hostilities, facilitated by U.S. intervention, helped restore market confidence at the geopolitical level. In this context, we continued to participate selectively in primary market deals where we identified attractive new issue premiums, supported by solid market demand for new supply. We remain highly selective on U.S. and Canadian issuers, while progressively broadening our coverage universe to position the portfolio to capture future opportunities.

At the end of June, the fund maintained a tactical underweight to U.S. issuers and was roughly neutral on Canadian names. Overall, exposure to U.S. and Canadian issuers represented around 28% of the benchmark. Duration remains slightly underweight relative to the benchmark, although it increased compared to previous month, primarily due to the reduced exposure to U.S. credit. The portfolio's absolute duration stood at 2.86 years. Corporate bonds accounted for 77% of the portfolio at month-end, driven by the “relatively” compressed sub-senior spread and limited hybrid compensation. Our allocations remain tilted toward countercyclical sectors. Utilities represent 30.2% of the NAV, followed by energy at 20% of the NAV and non-cyclical consumer sectors at 7.3% of the NAV.
